

Maia Corbitt
Director of Advocacy & Mission Giving, Garver
Black Hilyard Family Foundation
NSAC Vice-President

Maia Corbitt has worked on issues of sustainability for more than 20 years after graduating from the University of Texas in Austin with a B.A. in Geography, where she studied systems and remote sensing technologies. Maia began her career at the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA), learning from the dedicated men and women operating hydroelectric, water and wastewater, and irrigation systems while protecting the essential resource of the Colorado River.

After which, Maia was honored to helm the State of Texas Alliance for Recycling (STAR) as Executive Director with a passionate team working to elevate the standing of recycling in Texas. She then joined Booth, Ahrens & Werkenthin P.C. as a lobbyist and consultant, returning to water policy while continuing to push for statewide recycling and materials management legislation.

Maia is currently the Director of Advocacy and Mission Giving for the Garver, Black, Hilyard Family Foundation focusing on supporting the missions of likeminded organizations, dedicated to the betterment and beauty of public spaces. She also serves as President of Texans for Clean Water, which works to promote solutions to waterway litter and illegal dumping through research and policy.
