Anna LeRoy Special Projects Intern

Anna joined the National Stewardship Action Council in 2025 and currently serves as the organization's Special Projects Intern. Prior to working for NSAC, Anna worked at the City of Elk Grove's Recycling & Waste Division as their Environmental Associate.

Anna is passionate about bridging the gap between science and policy to mitigate the impacts of anthropogenic climate change. She is an advocate for corporate sustainability through the scope of Extended Producer Responsibility legislation and strives to facilitate environmental progress through policy. Anna started her professional career in the waste industry and is eager to continue her work finding solutions that support a closed loop system.

After graduating with a Bachelor of Science in Environmental Studies from California State University, Sacramento, Anna decided to continue her academic journey at the University of California, Davis where she is currently pursuing a Master of Science in Environmental Policy and Management. Her academics have provided her with a strong foundation in climate sciences and resource management. Once Anna has completed her master's degree, she plans to stay in the solid waste policy space and continue her work in advocacy.
